

Population Health Summit IV

“Working Across Sectors to
Address Social Determinants of Health”

#PopHealth2016

NYC Department of City Planning (DCP)

NYC Department of City Planning (DCP)

Our Core Values:

- Highest sense of professionalism and integrity
- Active and Inclusive Community Engagement
- Comprehensive, Long-Term, and Equitable Approach
- Attention to Design and Livability
- Innovative, Multi-Disciplinary Expertise

Our Strategic Objectives

a

Encourage housing production, affordability, and quality

b

Catalyze long-term neighborhood improvement through integrated planning

c

Promote economic development and job growth

d

Enhance resiliency and sustainability of neighborhoods

e

Ensure integrity, timeliness, and responsiveness in land use reviews

f

Supply objective data and expertise to a broad range of planning functions and stakeholders

DCP's strategic objectives

Encourage housing production, affordability and quality

Active Design Guidelines and Shaping the Sidewalk Experience

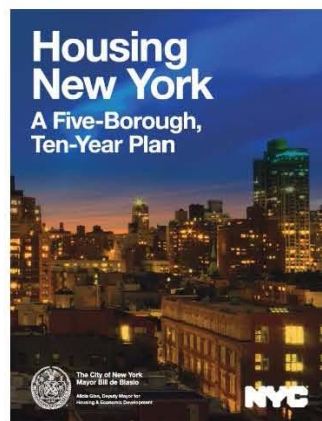

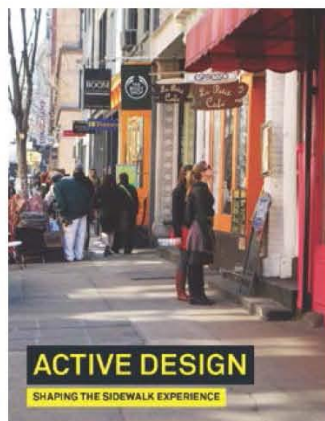

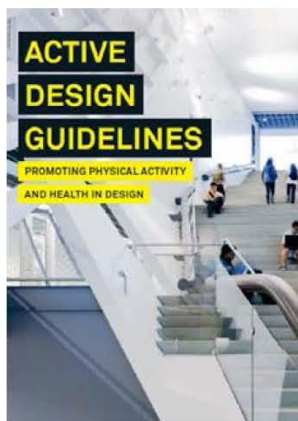

Promoting physical activity and health in design.

Zoning for Quality and Affordability

Make zoning work better to achieve greater affordability and quality in housing.

Mandatory Inclusionary Housing

Make affordable housing mandatory and permanent wherever new housing capacity is approved through land use actions.

DCP's strategic objectives

Catalyze long-term neighborhood improvement through integrated planning

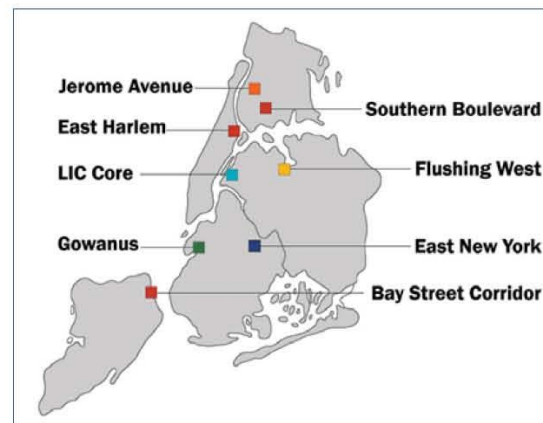

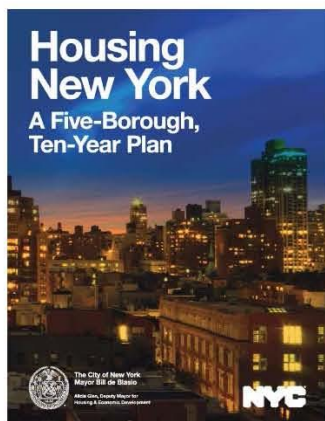

PLACES: Neighborhood Planning Studies

DCP is organizing a series of place-based planning studies to foster diverse, livable neighborhoods with mixed-income housing and supporting services.

PLACES is a people-centered planning approach in which DCP and other agencies work collaboratively with communities, stakeholders and elected officials to actively shape their neighborhoods.

Public Realm

Livability, public health/safety and urban design are considered early in every neighborhood study.

East Harlem Neighborhood Study

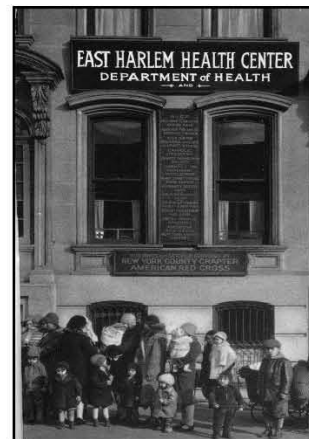

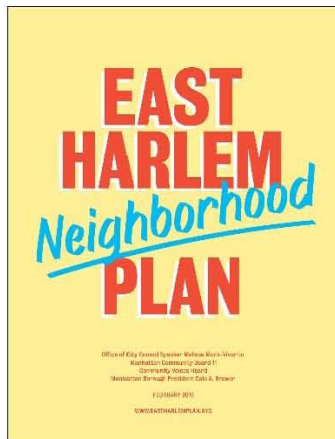

Goals include:

Creating new housing opportunities, with zoning that will allow construction of new affordable housing and preservation of existing housing;

Improving streetscapes for pedestrians through enhanced urban design, commercial storefront guidelines, and zoning to maintain and strengthen the neighborhood's character and retail corridors;

Emphasizing job creation and economic development that will benefit residents of the neighborhood, particularly around the 125th Street and Park Avenue transit hub;

Working in concert with other City agencies to identify and prioritize capital investments benefiting existing neighborhood residents.

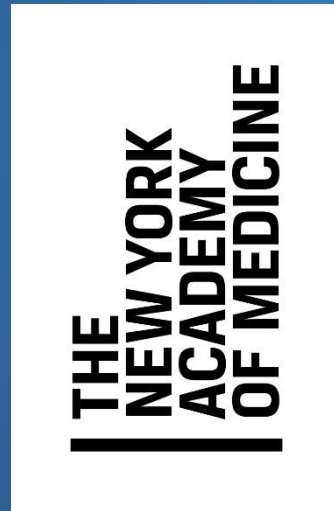

NYC Department of City Planning (DCP)

Thank You!

Population Health Summit IV

“Working Across Sectors to
Address Social Determinants of Health”

#PopHealth2016