

For Current NYHealth Grantees:Free Technical Assistance by the New York Council of Nonprofits

The COVID-19 pandemic has created many challenges for New York nonprofits, but it has also opened up new opportunities for growth. As a result, a number of New York Health Foundation (NYHealth) grantees have voiced an increased need for coaching and technical assistance to help them build a foundation for recovery and long-term viability. As part of its commitment to provide non-financial resources, NYHealth is partnering with the New York Council of Nonprofits (NYCON) to offer technical assistance, free of charge, to grantees.

NYCON works to strengthen New York State's nonprofit sector by building capacity, engaging in advocacy, informing philanthropic giving, and conducting research on the nonprofit sector's relevance and impact. Through this partnership, NYCON is offering a wide range of technical assistance opportunities to grantees, including:

- Organizational assessment
- Financial infrastructure assessment
- Financial reporting, cost accounting, cash flow analysis
- Human resources
- PPP forgiveness
- Fund development planning
- Bylaw amendments
- Board and staff facilitations
- Strategic planning
- Partnerships, mergers, and acquisitions
- COVID-19 re-opening consultation
- Policy development (e.g., fiscal, HR, gift acceptance)

For current NYHealth grantees, there is no application process and there are no reporting requirements for this technical assistance opportunity.

To get started, please contact Susan Weinrich at SWeinrich@nycon.org. If you are not sure what your organization needs, NYCON can help you identify which services could best support your organization.

For any general questions about the NYHealth technical assistance opportunity, please contact Blandine Etienne, Administrative Assistant, at Etienne@NYHealthFoundation.org.
